WELCOME | CROESO

50 years ago this year, Neil Armstrong became the first human being to set foot on the moon. To celebrate the anniversary of this amazing event, we have put together a performance all about space, the cosmos and the great beyond – and we need your help!

Everyone who comes along to ‘One Small Step’ is going to be joining in and some of the classes will even be writing and performing their own songs on the stage. This short pack is intended to help you get your class ready for the concert. It also provides a few suggestions on how you can explore the music in the concert further. You will find:

INTRODUCTION | CYFLWYNIAD

One Small Step is a concert inspired by human exploration into space. Intrigued by the beauty and majesty of the moon and stars, we have always sought to gain a deeper understanding of the universe. From Apollo 11, the first human landing on the moon – to the SpaceX mission to Mars, we want to travel into space and explore the cosmos.

One Small Step is an imagined story – of a capsule sent by humans from earth to a strange and distant planet. Who lives there? What can they learn from us and what can we learn from them?

The Musicians

Our journey into space will feature some amazing musicians. You'll get to hear:

- Lucy Knight, professional soprano (a female opera singer with a very high voice).

Five instrumental musicians from Sinfonia Cymru, a professional chamber orchestra:

- a string quartet: two violins, a viola and a cello, and
- a pianist.

And of course you will all be featuring in the concert as musicians too!

What you need to do in advance

We have two pieces that everyone will join in with together so please take the time to learn these before the day. The more times you've sung through these songs in advance, the better and the more exciting the experience will be.

There's a recording, word sheet and melody sheet attached to this pack to help you. Having a sing along in class or in assembly is great, and you can also put the music on in the background while you're doing other work just to help everyone get really familiar with it.

PROJECT SONGS – LYRICS | CANEUON Y PROSIECT – GEIRIAU

We'd like you to teach your class two simple songs which will feature in One Small Step.

1. Thomas Tallis: 'From Darkest Night'/'O'r Noson Ddu', arranged by/trefniant James Redwood

'From Darkest Night' is a setting of a very famous tune by Thomas Tallis (1505 – 1585). The words and arrangement are by the English composer and music leader James Redwood. He was inspired by the way that light travels across the universe: many of the stars that we can see in the sky have already burned out but their light is still travelling towards us. It's a crazy thought to get your head around!

The tune is in a canon, which means that although we will all learn the same tune, we'll be joining in at different times. The guide tracks have the English versions, but please learn the Welsh versions too so we can sing both in the show.

ENGLISH WORDS | GEIRIAU SAESNEG

From darkest night, the morning star,
With light it carries from afar
No more it burns but long ago.
It shone and shines tomorrow.

WELSH WORDS | GEIRIAU CYMRAEG

(Welsh translation by Elinor Wyn Reynolds)

O'r noson ddu, gwêl seren glaer,
O bellter byd daw golau taer
Losgodd yn ddim, ond unwaith, do,
Bu'n ddisglair cynt, daw golau eto.

2. Henry Purcell: 'Thou tun'st this world below'/'Fe droi di'r byd islaw'

Henry Purcell (1659 – 1695) was one of the greatest and most famous British composers ever to have lived. This song is taken from a longer piece called 'Hail! Bright Cecilia' – which is all about the power of music. Saint Cecilia is the patron saint of musicians and the words are about music's celestial power – how it moves us and inspires us. In the performance, Lucy will sing some of the music and then we'll all join in. Remember to learn both the English and Welsh words.

SONGWRITING ACTIVITY | GWEITHGAREDD YSGRIFENNU CANEUON

As part of this project we will be working with KS2 pupils at six Powys primary schools, creating new songs which will be shared as part of each performance at Theatr Brycheiniog, The Hafren and Wyeside Arts Centre. If you would like to have a go at making your own song in response to the performance, here are our top tips!

Our theme for the songwriting workshops is 'Letter to an Alien' and our topics for the letters are:

- The night sky
- Space explorers
- The journey to the moon

Who is singing?

The first thing to think about is Point of View... who is singing this song? If you are writing about the night sky is the singer an astronomer looking through her telescope? Or is it the ethereal voice of a star shining in a galaxy? Are we singing as a character or are we describing something we see? Any point of view can work well, but deciding before you write the song will really help your process.

Extension Activity

What's your favourite piece of music? Can you explain WHY you like it so much?

SONGWRITING ACTIVITY CONT. | GWEITHGAREDD YSGRIFENNU CANEUON PAR.

Atmosphere

What kind of feel do you want your song to have? Of course, the music does a lot of this work, but your text sets the tone. Is it a poetic, reflective song with lots of beautiful metaphors and images? Is it a snappy dramatic song with lots of short one-syllable words? How does this change the words you choose, the length of your sentences, and use of repetition and alliteration?

Rhyming

Rhyming in songs can be fun and satisfying. It can make a song feel well made and rounded BUT the meaning of the words is always more important than making a rhyme. Don't sacrifice the right words, for rhyming words.

Structure

There are lots of different ways to structure a good song. Verses with a chorus in between is familiar to us all – but it's not the only way! You can be creative with how you structure your lyrics – different sections with different feelings – for example a love song might be cheerful and happy to begin with “I love you! You're amazing” but then have a different, sadder part later “I don't think you love me – I'm crying”.

The performance features lots of music by different composers, including songs by Mozart, Richard Strauss and Maurice Ravel. You can explore the atmosphere they create through their music through the following links:

Mozart: Queen of the Night Aria 1 (from his opera The Magic Flute. Click Here to listen)

Strauss: Die Nacht (The Night). Click Here to listen

You can find links to more music you'll hear in the show HERE.

Keep it brief

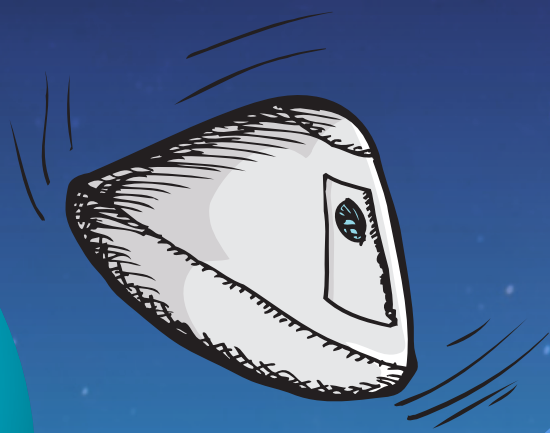

A good song doesn't need many words. Try thinking about some of your favourite songs and then look at the lyrics written down on the page – there probably won't be that many. Remember that the music can do a lot of the work – so you don't need to spell things out as you would in other kinds of writing. If you sing a simple phrase like “I love you” you might not need much more text, because the music can show us the emotions.

This can be tricky, because it means you have to communicate lots of ideas in a short space of time. You have to be really clear about your word and sentence choices.

Be prepared

The rough part of writing song lyrics is seeing everything change when it is set to music. It can be painful to see a phrase you love be put in the bin – or some words you thought were just “OK” becoming the most important part of the song – but working collaboratively means compromise. The most important thing is to make a good song, so you have to be brave with offering ideas, and then accept that not all of them will be right for this song.

Good luck!
